The DJSI are the investment indices published by the U.S.-based S&P Dow Jones Indices LLC (“S&P DJI”), which evaluate sustainability of the world’s leading companies in terms of economic, environmental and social criteria and select companies that demonstrate overall excellence for the indices.

Based on its annual review, S&P DJI published the updated components list, and Honda was selected as a component of the Dow Jones Sustainability Asia / Pacific Index for the eighth consecutive year. In the review, Honda also was ranked in the top five for the global Automobile sector and added to the DJSI World.

Honda received especially high scores in the automobile sector in several criterions including the “Materiality” and “Innovation Management” in the Governance & Economic Dimension, the “Environmental Reporting” in the Environmental Dimension and the “Corporate Citizenship & Philanthropy” in the Social Dimension.
